Here are some other good things to know:

- Me & My Shadow is a physical performance and features very little spoken language
- there are no very loud sounds in the sound design or music
- we recommend bringing earmuffs for children who may find noisy spaces over-stimulating
- low level lighting is used throughout the show to create effects; at the end there is a moment with very bright lights
- when the show ends, there is a brief moment of darkness before the lights come back on
- we take a relaxed approach to audience noise and movement, and children who need a break are welcome to exit and re-enter with guidance from the front-of-house team

Visual Story

ME & MY SHADOW

A guide for children about what they will see and hear.

Soon, my class and I are going to see a show called Me & My Shadow.

It is a live performance in a theatre.

I will sit in my seat and watch the show on stage.

I do not need to join in.

My teachers and classmates will be with me.

Image description: A person stands on a dark stage in front of a purple background. She has her hands on her hips and looks over her shoulder at her shadow which is jumping up in the air.

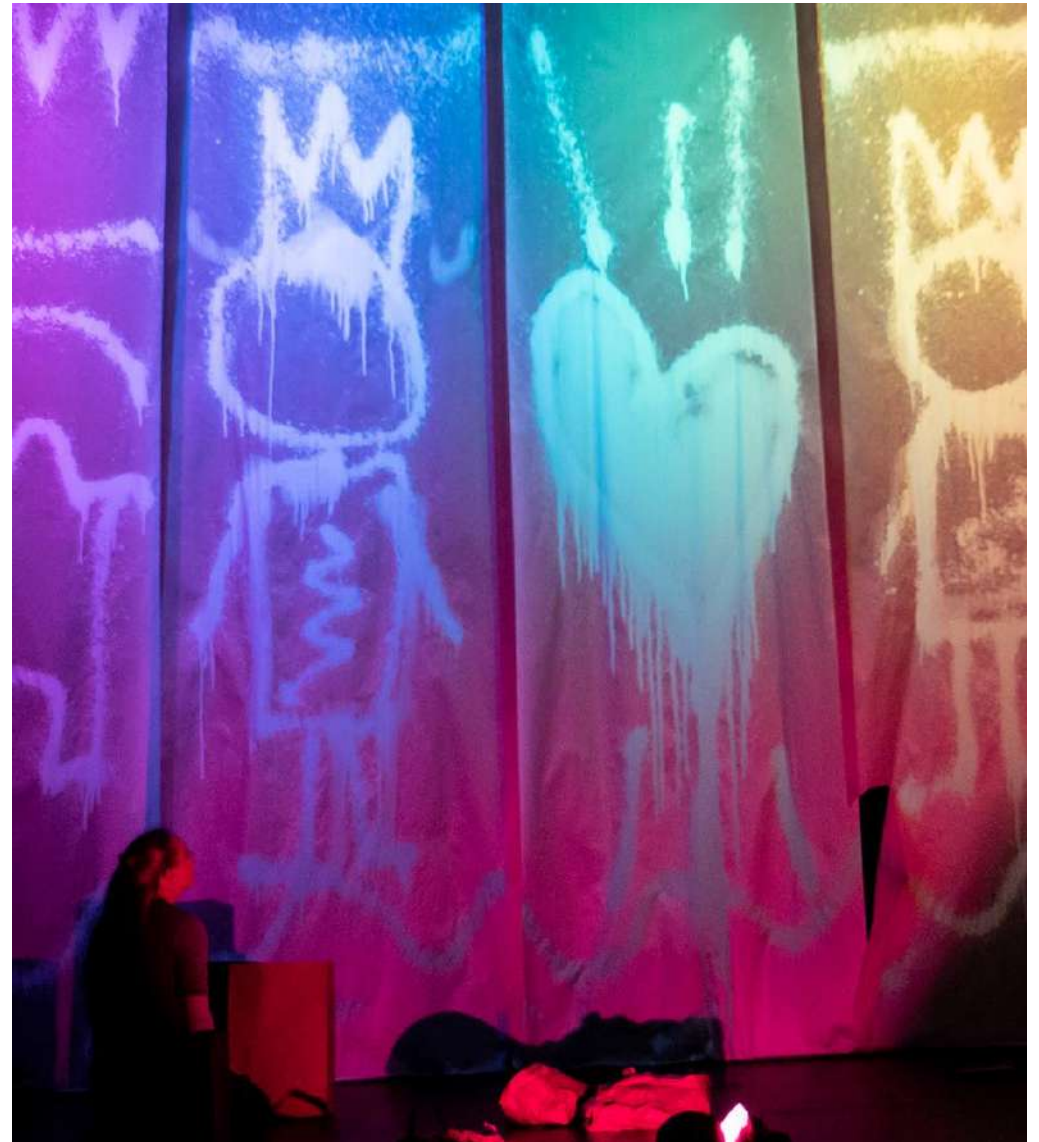

Me & My Shadow is a story about a person and their shadow becoming friends.

It is about:

- meeting someone new
- learning how to play together
- solving problems
- sharing joy

The story is gentle and playful.

Image description: A person sits on a floor looking up at a wall. There are colourful drapes hanging down with drawings on them.

There are two performers on stage.

They wear everyday clothes, perfect for playing.

Even when something looks surprising, the performers are safe.

They are pretending and enjoying themselves.

Image description: A person is standing next to another person who is sitting on a box. They are both wearing paper hats and are laughing. Their shadows are on the wall behind them.

In the theatre, there will be a stage. This is where the performers act.

There will be lots of seats. I will sit here with my class and teachers.

There will also be some mats on the floor between the seats and the front on the stage. Some children will sit on them.

There are spaces for wheelchairs.

There are people who work at the theatre who will help us if we need anything.

Image description: Taken from the stage, an empty theatre is ready for its audience. The seats are red and we see lighting rigging in the ceiling.

On the stage, I will see:

- two performers who act and tell the story
- large drapes which hang from the ceiling
- paper bags that change into different things
- light and shadow moving and changing size
- colours appearing and disappearing

Image description: A person stands in front of a backdrop on which has hand drawn people on it, and her large shadow. She is surrounded by paper bags on the floor.

Light

Some parts of the show are darker so I can see the shadows clearly.

There will be lights in different colours.

If I don't like how the lights feel, I can wear dark glasses or cover my eyes.

Image description: A person holds both arms above his head. His shadow looks like it is holding a ball of light which shines on the wall behind him.

Sound

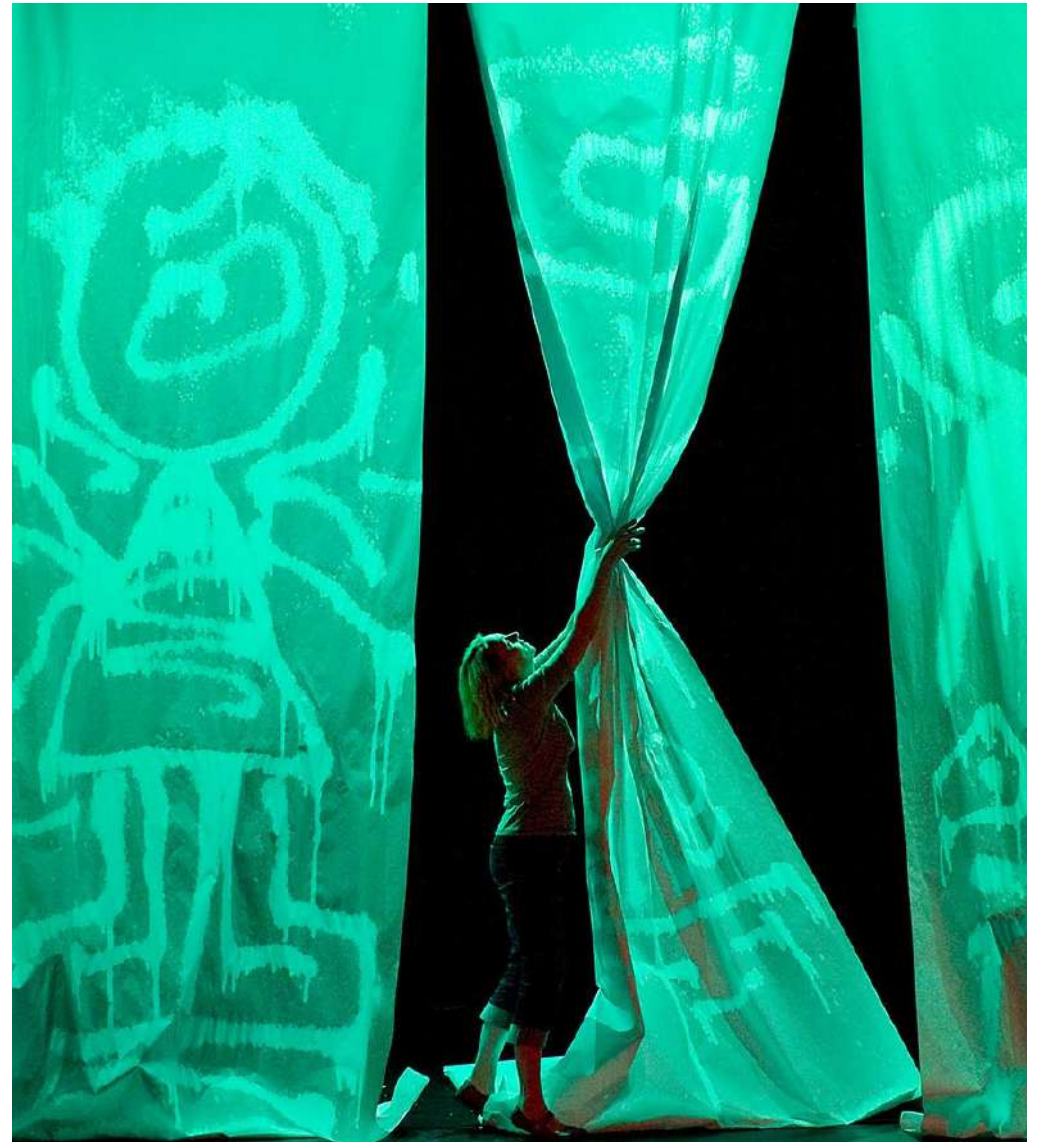

The performers will laugh, say some words, and say some short sentences.

There will be music and sound played through speakers.

Sometimes it will be quiet and calm.
Sometimes it will be a little louder.

There will not be any very loud sounds.

Image description: A person reaches up to grab a long curtain. Around her other curtains hang from the ceiling and they are lit up in green light.

Movement

The performers move their bodies to tell the story.

They run around, play and do special tricks.

I will stay in my seat and watch.

Image description: A person lifts up another person by the hips. She is reaching up to catch a red ball.

I will stay with my class and sit in my seat.

I can make sounds to show how I feel, like laughing or saying “wow”.

I will also be still and quiet enough so everyone can hear and see the show.

Image description: A group of children sit in a theatre. They are watching a show and having a good time.

The show goes for 45 minutes.

If I need help, I can let an adult know.

An adult can assist me to leave the theatre during the show if needed.

Image description: A group of children sit in a theatre, they are waiting for a show to start. The stage is ready with a set and paper bags on the floor.

When the show finishes, people clap to say thank you.

Some people might even cheer!

I might feel happy, calm or even sad that it is ending. That is ok.

I can express my feelings in the way is comfortable for me.

Image description: A group of people in a theatre are laughing and clapping their hands.

When we leave, I might:

- talk about my favourite part
- think about the shadows and light
- tell my family about the story

Everyone experiences Me & My Shadow in their own way.

Everyone at Patch Theatre is looking forward to seeing you at
Me & My Shadow!
